SCIENCE

“Case Study: The Case of the Curdled Culture”

Background: Ms. Garcia, a passionate cheesemaker, runs a small business selling artisan cheeses at a local farmer’s market. She prides herself on using only the highest quality ingredients and traditional cheese making techniques. Recently, several customers have complained of experiencing stomach cramps and nausea after consuming her cheese. Ms. Garcia is alarmed and wants to determine the cause of the illnesses.

Investigation: Ms. Garcia meticulously reviews her cheese making process. She uses raw, unpasteurized milk obtained directly from a local farm to create her signature cheese cultures. She suspects there might be a link between the raw milk and the customer illnesses.

Answer these questions in your practical file

1. What is the role of bacteria in cheese production?
2. How does pasteurization affect the bacterial content of milk?
3. What are the potential risks associated with using raw milk in cheese making?
4. Imagine you are a food scientist advising Ms. Garcia. What recommendations would you make regarding the safety of her cheese making practices?
5. Create a social media post for Ms. Garcia’s cheese business that addresses the recent customer complaints, emphasizes her commitment to food safety, and educates consumers about the potential risks and benefits of raw milk cheese.

“Preservative Puzzle: Decoding Food Labels”

Instructions:

1. Collect labels from 5 different packaged food items.
2. Paste the labels in your practical file.
3. Identify and list all the preservatives used in each food item.
4. Conduct research to determine if any of these preservatives are considered harmful to human health.
5. Provide an evaluation of the potential risks associated with each identified preservative.

This activity will help you understand the prevalence of preservatives in packaged foods and assess their potential impact on your health.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Mercantile has been the guiding ideology for many explorers and traders who in turn looked for opportunities to establish their territories. Find out about the English, French, Dutch and Portuguese and how they traversed in the course of history to India.

- find out about any one foreign trader, make a scroll depicting their trade route on map of India
- pick a place that they established their influence upon and share a brief history of that town or a city.

Criteria for Assessment: -

1. Originality
2. Creativity
3. Content
4. Overall Presentation
